Att. To Ms. Corinne Militello

Vice President & Assistant General Counsel
Taylor & Francis Group (Americas) at Informa
Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

Re: Various CRC Press Books – Protection Devices and Systems for High-Voltage Applications; Electric Relays: Principals & Applications; Digital Protective Relays; Power Supply Devices and Systems of Relay Protection; Cyber and Electromagnetic Threats in Modern Relay Protection; and Electronic Devices on Discrete Components

Dear Ms. Militello,

In your replay on my appeals to Mr. Emmett Dages at May 09, 2020 your write:

“We decline to provide yet another iteration of responses (in the format you have now requested) but I will instead direct you, through this letter, to key prior correspondence on this matter... We have, however, explained that all such discrepancies stemmed from that reporting error by Mr. Kruszewski, and that there has been no failure on our part to make any owed payments to you.

- 1. Mr. Kruszewski’s email reported, in error...*
- 2. Mr. Kruszewski’s email reported, in error...*
- 3. Mr. Kruszewski’s email reported, in error...”*

I am sorry, but your answer to my appeals at May 09, 2020 looks more than strange for the simple reason that in this appeal I have no references to Mr. Kruszewski and his mistakes. That is, your answer has nothing to do with my appeal to Mr. Emmett Dages and absolutely does not correlate with my appeal... Why? Do you really hope to start everything in the second round and start repeating all these circles again and again? Sorry, in my appeals to Mr. Emmett Dages I wrote absolutely clearly: “I do not ask you for any further explanations or any additional information” because all these explanations repeat the same arguments and do not correspond to my questions.

Your refusal to discuss my specific claims, formulated in an appeal to Mr. Emmett Dages at May 09, 2020 and the attempt to start a discussion in an endless circle, I see as an action that causes me addition moral damage.

If you still know, then I will repeat about my intention to apply to the court with a claim to Taylor & Francis to compensate for the moral damage inflicted on me for 15 years in the amount of 100 thousand dollars.

if you don't have any reasons to respond to specific claims made by me, and therefore you refuse to answer them, then I consider the further discussion pointless.

Kind regards,
